

This really doesn't seem like a good idea to me. I'm a senior citizen, not particularly into digital stuff, but this seems like interference into consumer affairs, particularly considering the source (Hollywood?) of the petition, who have only their own agenda. I know that those whose toes are most being stepped on are those who can benefit most from the defeat of this "Flag" issue at the expense of the Hollywood coffers, but on principle alone this is not ethical. I never thought of the FCC as being anyone's servant boy. Basically, this is not an FCC issue, as I understand the functions of the FCC.

Thanks for hearing my comments.
